Content

This course applies fundamental theories in textile management with focus on supply chain management and fashion management. In the first part of the course the students reflect on fundamental methods, principles and strategies, related to logistics and supply chain management. The second part of the course introduces fashion as a socio-cultural phenomenon, from a social- and fashion studies perspective, of relevance for fashion management. Core concepts such as digitalization and sustainability are introduced, and discussed in relation to textile management within both parts. In addition, the course also provides an introduction for reflections on project management and leadership in an intercultural context.
